MISSOULA,....

As many as 14 schools will be represented this Saturday when the University of Montana hosts the Montana Invitational and Adams Relays track meets.

The meets are conducted simultaneously and each is expected to draw entrants from seven schools. The Montana Invitational is for college competitors and the Adams Relays attract high school thinclads from the Western part of the state.

In addition to 35 UM trackmen, the University of Idaho, Spokane Falls Community College, North Idaho Junior College, the Calgary Track Club, and Flathead Valley Community College will participate. Western Montana College is a tentative entrant.

Missoula's two Class AA high schools, Hellgate and Sentinel, will be joined by Kalispell, Anaconda, Polson, Hamilton and several prepsters from the Calgary Track Club in the high school division.

The UM squad had last weekend off and has made only one team appearance this spring. Two weeks ago the Grizzly tracksters competed in the Spokane Falls Relays, setting three meet records and turning in an overall effort that was pleasing to coach Harley Lewis. Lewis believes that his defending Big Sky champions' performance level will improve sharply Saturday.

Of the visiting schools Idaho's Vandals, 110-46 conquerers of Boise State in a dual meet over the weekend, have the strongest overall squad, but Spokane Falls and the Calgary Track Club will enter some outstanding individual performers.

Randy Makolosky, who won the 880 at last year's meet, is the top individual competitor. He has galloped a fine 1:50.9 half-mile for the Calgary club and represented Canada against the Russian National Team in an indoor meet this winter.

Field events begin at 11:30 a.m. Saturday. The running events start at 12:20 p.m.
